

Drain tile

Drain tile must be installed in clay soil types. The building inspector determines soil type at the footing inspection. (Please see results of footing inspection to see if you must install drain tile.) Drain tile must be inspected before backfilling the foundation. If you choose to install drain tile as precaution but is not indicated as necessary by the building inspector, an inspection is not needed. However, if the building inspector calls for drain tile, it MUST be installed and inspected.
